

Reroof and Recycle.

In 2010, Horch Roofing launched their Roof Recycling Program.

Now there's more than one reason to feel good about your new roof. When you reroof with Horch Roofing, you not only get a long-lasting, beautiful new roof, you also get the satisfaction of knowing that your old roofing materials won't end up in a landfill.

Horch Roofing recycles all the materials from your old roof at no additional cost to you. Each year Maine produces over 100,000 tons of re-roofing waste that ends up in landfills- but if you choose Horch Roofing as your roofing contractor, your old roof will be recycled.

Horch Roofing participates in Roofs to Roads, a program that turns asphalt shingles into paving materials from old roofs. The other materials are recycled appropriately at local recycling center with no waste going into landfills.

It's another good reason to choose Horch Roofing- the Midcoasts' premier roofing contractor.
